'Waste of Effort'

Says Outside of Possible Half Dozen Proposals Remainder are a "Waste of Effort"

Albany, N. Y., May 24 (AP).— Alfred E. Smith emerged from the political shadows today with a recommendation that New York's constitutional convention adopt a proposed amendment to blot out the smaller counties of the state.

At the same time, the 64-year-old delegate urged wiping out
the state's "disgrace" occasioned
by neglect of reapportionment
of legislative districts and adoption of measures that would insure low-cost housing, biennial legislative sessions, expediting of grade crossing elimination and prohibition against legislative enactment of local bills.

Outside of a possible half dozen other proposed amendments, the former Democratic governor observed, the rest of the proposals are a "waste of effort".
Commenting on his suggestion to erase the smaller counties
by consolidation with neighboring units of larger population, Smith asserted "there is no
rhyme or reason in 62 counties,
and over a thousand townships."

"We Don't Need Any of 'Em"
He singled out for example,
Hamilton, Putnam, Schuyler, Rockland, Orange and Ulster counties and asked a cold cigar in the corner of his mouth as he remarked, "We don't need any of 'em."

"If New York state was strictly a business enterprise, how long would all these counties last?"
he asked. "Their population isn't increasing, but their costs of government are."

"Why go to all the expense of paying for county officials in a place with around 12,000 persons or a little more? It's absurd. There's no use for them.
They should be consolidated with larger counties."

"There's no use in trying to economize in government by slashing appropriations. Economy is best accomplished by getting at the root of the evil."

"Disgrace to State" Again, on urging the convention's action on reapportionment, Smith, twice a constitutional delegate, called it "a disgrace to the state that the present constitutional provisions for reapportionment have been ignored."

District Join

Albany, May 24.—(Special).— Philip Elting of Kingston, Republican delegate to the state constitutional convention from the 29th Senatorial district, introduced at Monday night's session a proposed amendment to the constitution, to reduce from nine to eight the number of judicial districts of the state.

As provided under the Elting proposal, which was referred by Court of Appeals Chief Judge Frederick E. Crane, president of the convention, to the judicial committee, the present third and ninth judicial districts would be merged into one district, thus consolidating the entire Hudson river valley in one district.

Under this plan, the newly created third district would comprise the counties of Albany, Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Rensselaer, Rockland, Schuylar, Sullivan, Ulster and Westchester. At the present time the counties of Dutchess, Putnam, Westchester, Rockland and Orange comprise the ninth district,
while Albany, Columbia, Greene, Sullivan and Ulster make up the third district.

Cedillo Confers With Aide

Gen. Saturnino Cedillo (right) is shown talking with an armed lieutenant on his ranch at Palomas, Mex., shortly before he took to the hills in revolt against the Mexican government. Army fliers said they had bombed his air base near Santo Domingo, destroying two camouflaged planes, in retaliation for an attack made upon the field headquarters of President Lazaro Cardenas, near San Luis Potosi, who is directing military forces trying to crush the insurrection.

that this will be the largest pa-

the city of Kingston. The parade will be formed at the Gov-

march will be down Broadway to Foxhall avenue where the various units will be separated and massed and then marched from Delaware avenue to the Municipal Auditorium where the parade will be dismissed. There will be 21 mounted officers in line, and a division of Grand Commandery of-

The several Commanderies of the state of which there are 72 in all will march as separate units com-

their own musical organizations with them which will add greatly

Four Point Program Planned

Penn Yan, N. Y., May 24 (AP).—
New York state Republicans planned today a four-point platform aimed at aiding labor and industry, agriculture, taxation and state finances.

The platform, to be written at the group's state convention in Niagara Falls this week-end, was made public at a dinner of Yates county Young Republicans with Henry B. Sanford of Bath, chairman of the convocation's platform committee.

The labor plank, he asserted, is expected to provide the most discussion before final adoption
"with many clubs, particularly in the metropolitan area, proposing different ideas."

Compulsory incorporation of labor unions and similar organizations, he said, would be proposed by the Queens county delegation.

Neutral Observer Says Car-

Playing Safe—Effects of Bombing Undisclosed

Mexico City, May 24 (AP).—A competent neutral military observer said today the Lazaro Cardenas government apparently was not "taking very seriously" General Saturnino Cedillo's uprising in San Luis Potosi.

Defense ministry officials—the few not on vacation—showed only desultory interest in dispatches
from the war zone, this source said, and were described as feeling President Cardenas was merely "playing safe" in concentrating
six infantry battalions, seven cavalry regiments, 18 warplanes and assorted units of specialists in the state.

Dispatches filtering through military channels yesterday indicated General Genovevo Rivas Gullien, state military commander, was using planes for the first time to bomb rebel concentrations operating in scattered areas.

Effects Not Revealed.
But the effects of the bombardments about Cardenas, Las Tablas
and Canos were not revealed.

Persons familiar with the geography of San Luis Potosi and adjoining states expressed the belief Cedillo, reported yesterday to have set up headquarters at Mon-tebello, about eight miles east of his captured estate Las Palomas, would move slowly eastward toward the wider country around Morelos Viejos on the Mexico-
Laredo highway.

Meanwhile, rutilio Alamilla Valdes, secretary of State of San Luis Potosi, who fled the capital of that state Saturday night, was arrested here.

The government press department made public the text of President Cardenas' message to Congress last night, asking it to

ers and name provisional officials

75-Foot Fall From Rock Ledge Fatal
To Quarry Worker

Alaska Ivanis, 54, Dies on Way to Hospital After Falling From Mingo Hollow Quarry Wall

Cause Unknown

Believe Ivanis Slipped on Loose Rock or Was Struck
by Falling Stone

Alaska Ivanis, 54, also known as Alex Evans, employed by the Callanan Road Improvement Co.
at its Mingo Hollow quarry, fell more than 75 feet from a rock
ledge to the floor of the quarry, about five o'clock Monday afternoon. He was so badly injured that he died while being taken to the Kingston Hospital in one of the Callanan Co. trucks.

Ivanis was injured when he slipped or fell while working along the face of the quarry prying off rock which had been loosened by the blast, but had not broken off and fallen. Whether he slipped while working and plunged to his death, or whether he was struck by rock from above, causing him to lose his balance,
was not disclosed.

An autopsy was ordered and was performed this morning by Doctors Taylor and Jacobson. The body was turned over to Coroner Leston D. DuBois, to await word from relatives.

The Sheriff's office was notified
soon after the accident and Deputies Vredenburg and Brown went to the scene. The sheriff also notified Troopers Reilly and Senecal, who joined in the investigation.

From papers found among his effects it was learned that Ivanis came to this country from Yugoslavia in 1910, apparently, had worked about five years in Syracuse and later at South Bethel-hem, near Albany. He came to Kingston and started work at Mingo Hollow on May 9, making his home at the Mott boarding house at 60 Cedar street.

In reply to a message to the Syracuse Police Department Sheriff Molyneux this morning received word that the Cleveland
Police Department had the necessary information regarding relatives of the dead man.

Ivanis made application for citizenship papers at Syracuse in 1936. His death is the first that has occurred at Mingo Hollow since the traprock company began operations there about a year ago.

O'Leary to the municipal auditorium. Special arrangements have been worked out to seat this delegation.

A concert will be rendered by the Lions Club orchestra under the personal direction of Rogers Baer, at 7:30 p. m., with the memorial service beginning at 8 o'clock.

The parade will begin from Delaware avenue at 11 o'clock promptly in the morning of May 30, with six divisions in line.

Captain Charles N. Behrens, executive officer, First Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, New York
National Guard, will be the parade marshal.

Additional details will be released by the committee, consisting of Harry R. Karnaghan,

$17,700 Awards
Made by Jury in
'Teddy Bear' Case

Injuries to Bear Bring $12,- 500, While Injuries to Gustave Walldorf Result in Award of $5,000

Awards totaling $17,700 were made by the jury in the "Teddy Bear" actions which have been on trial in supreme court for the past week in which damages amounting to $175,000 were originally sought. Alleging that a trained bear had been injured and refused now to do his act, the Walldorf Brothers of Cliffside Park, N. J., brought actions amounting to $150,000 against the Greyhound Bus Lines, George A. Hamid Enterprises, Inc., sought $500 for damage to a truck on which the bear was being transported, and George A.
Hamid, Inc., the booking agency which booked the act, sought $25,- 000 for loss of profits.

The plaintiffs were represented
by Michael Nardone of Hickland and Andrew J. Cook of this city, while the defendants appeared by Murphy, Aldrich, Guy and Broderick, with N. LeVan Flaver as local counsel.

Summations were made and the charge delivered by Justice Schurck Monday after testimony had been closed last Friday. The matter was sent to the jury Monday afternoon and after about two hours of deliberation the jury by a 11 to 1 vote found for the plaintiffs.

George A. Hamid Enterprises, Inc., were awarded $200 in their $500 action for damage to the truck.

Willie and Gustave Walldorf, as partners in the boxing bear act, were awarded $12,500 for the injuries to the bear and loss of profits. They had sought $50,- 000.

Gustave Walldorf, the brother who did the boxing and who alleged injuries to his shoulder
now prevent him boxing, was awarded $5,000.

An action brought by George
A. Hamid, Inc., to recover $25,000 for loss of profits, was dismissed
at the close of the plaintiff's case on motion of defendant on the grounds that the plaintiff had no cause of action.

An action brought by Willie Walldorf against the Bus Company for $50,000 for injuries suffered and for loss of profits because his brother could no longer
box with the bear, was also dismissed by the court on the theory
the plaintiff had shown no injuries and could not recover for anticipated profits lost through injuries to his brother.

The "Teddy Bear" cases attracted wide attention during the trial. Teddy was brought to Kingston in a cage and was exhibited to the jury in a demonstration by his trainer to show that he now refused to box. Motion pictures were also shown in evidence in Ulster county for the first time. One show was of Teddy boxing prior to his injuries and the second one was shown by a defense taken after the accident at Cliffside Park to show that the bear last March did get up on his hind legs as required in the boxing act.

Reports Say German Troops Increased Along Austrian Border—Hodza-Henlein Talks Interrupted

Praha, May 24 (AP).—Reports of new troop movements on the German side of Czechoslovakia's southern frontier combined with interruption of the Hodza-Hen-lein peace talks here today to discourage such optimism as had developed after Central Europe's critical week-end.

In official quarters reports circulated that yesterday's withdrawal of German troops from the border took place only in Saxony and that they fell back only about 20 miles.

On Czechoslovakia's frontier with Austria it was said the concentration of German troops actually had increased.

The sudden departure from Praha of Konrad Henlein caused suspension of his negotiations with Premier Milan Hodza on the dangerous issues between his Sudeten German party and the Czechoslovak Government.

This coincided with reports the Sudeten Germans were demanding withdrawal of Czechoslovak troops mobilized over the weekend in the Sudeten districts as a condition to continuation of peace talks—a condition Praha officials indicated it would be difficult to meet.

On Private Business
The official explanation emphasized that Henlein had gone to Asch on private business and that conversations would be resumed later, but private reports said there had been a break over the basis for starting the discussions.

These reports said the Sudeten Germans had demanded the "unconstitutional situation in the Sudeten Borderland" be terminated—in other words that Czechoslovak troops be withdrawn from Sudeten areas before serious negotiations were begun to settle their differences over self-government.

A demand for "restoration of the right of public assembly" also was attributed to the Sudeten group.

Premier Milan Hodza and Hen-lein talked for more than two hours last night, and were to have met again today with two Sudeten German members of Parliament.

At 10 a. m., however, the arrangements were called off and Henlein departed.

Encouraged

Last night's talk between Hodza and Henlein were said to have been "encouraging" although of purely an informatory character.

Official quarters in Praha were frankly dubious about the chance of meeting any sweeping demand on troop withdrawals.

It was pointed out that there are elections next Sunday and June 12, and that withdrawing of troops would be to invite a resumption of disorders such as almost led to war last week-end,
before the first set of municipal elections last Sunday.

Aside from the possible election disturbances there were other potential sources of disorder, it was explained.

The funeral of the two Sudeten
German victims of last Friday's frontier shooting is tomorrow, and the government feels troops should be on hand to prevent any possibility of untoward incidents.

Official circles cautioned against regarding the interruptions of

Church Defendant
In $10,000 Suit for Ice on Sidewalk

Ellenville Church Maintains Snow, Not Ice, to Blame for Accident to
Mrs. Baglebter

Alleging negligence on the part of The First German Lutheran Church of Ellenville in allowing ice to form on the sidewalk, Mrs.
Rose Baglebter and her husband,
Abram, bring actions in Supreme Court to recover $10,000 for injuries which Mrs. Baglebter suffered when she fell on the sidewalk on Center street, Ellenville, on March 16, 1937.

The plaintiffs allege that water which was conducted from the church roof through a leader was deposited on the church lawn and allowed to run over the grass and on to the sidewalk where it froze
and formed a dangerous icy condition, in winter. The action is brought for continued nuisance, it being alleged that Mrs. Baglebter broke her leg in the fall.

Plaintiffs allege that the water from the church roof freezing on the walk was the cause of the accident and that snow which had recently fallen obscured the ice on the pavement. Elsworth Baker and Manuel Dittenheimer appear for the plaintiffs.

In defense of the action Andrew
J. Cook, appearing for defendant church, claims that it was not ice from any water flowing from the roof which caused the fall, but that on March 15 a heavy snow had fallen. Walks were covered with snow and in the early morning hours passing traffic, he claims, had packed the snow in a path on the walk of the village before the walks had been cleared of the foot or more of snow. It is the contention of the defense that it was the packed snow upon which Mrs. Baglebter fell and not ice. Further the defense contends that the outlet
from the church leader was some 20 feet distant from the walks and that water did not flow from the Washington, May 24 (AP).—Opponents of the re-vamped wage-hour bill plunged the House into heated debate immediately after it met today for a last-ditch attempt to force adoption of a more flexible substitute.

Representative Ramspeck (D., Ga.) offered the alternative proposal as the "legal and safe way to provide for regulation of the wages and hours of this country's sweated labor."

His bill would create an independent administrative board with power to grant exemptions from provisions for a graduate minimum wage based on the "weighted average" for individual occupations. In contrast, the House bill would establish a universal graduated minimum wage starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing to 40 cents at the end of three years.

40-Cent Peak
Ramspeck said the initial wage under his bill probably would be slightly higher than 25 cents in most industries but could not go higher than 40 cents.

Hours under the House bill would start at 44 per week and drop to 40 in two years. Under Ramspeck's bill, the board would have power to vary them between 40 and 48 per week.

Declaring it had been endorsed originally by the C. I. O. and the American Federation of Labor,
he said the House would have to accept it "if you want to give anything more than a gesture to the sweated labor in this country."

President Roosevelt signed to-less than the appropriations for

Parade Memorial Day To Be Radio
Directed by Army

The Memorial Day parade of six divisions this year will be radio patrolled and conducted, according to plans made by Capt. Charles N. Behrens, executive officer of the 1st Bn., 156th F. A., N. Y.
N. G., who is grand marshal for the event May 30. The radios will be furnished by the Headquarters
Battery radio detail, and tests were made last night with the police department which resulted in satisfactory procedure.

The instruments to be used will be the new 194 portable and 25
radiophones, weighing about 25 pounds and easily carried on a man's back. These instruments, recently released for use in the national guard by the regular army, will be placed in cars along the parade route making it possible for the grand marshal to determine at any time when a portion of the parade lags, and where each section is located during the march. The police radios will quite probably be used in connection with the parade.

Last night the radio detail held an impromptu demonstration with the police department radio division. The army sets were placed on the police frequency and the police signal system together with the portable army units worked in cooperation as a single
net. Sergeant Ernest Ross was in charge of the police radio section during the demonstration, delivering orders to the army car as it cruised up and down Broadway.
This car, carrying a portable radiophone, kept the police department constantly informed as to its whereabouts and movements. A portable army set was also established in police headquarters for the demonstration and communication was maintained at all times with no more difficulty than one would experience with a telephone. Several police cars and motorcycle radios
may be used for patrolling the parade, being capable of receiving directions from a master army set in the grand marshal's car.

Festival Publicity Returns Show Wide National Coverage

Ulster county's Apple Blossom Festival has been a subject for the archives for almost three weeks, but exactly how much attention the three-day fete received is actually a matter of local publicity history.

It is estimated by a check of clippings from all parts of the nation on the syndicated feature, "The First Lady's 'My Day'," that the First Lady sold at least 2,000 copies of the book alone all about Ulster county, its apples, history and many advantages.

Authentic Figures
The figures are based on an Apple Blossom Festival of Circulation report for each city. The data, obtained from the Editor & Publisher's year book, is for single purchases only. It is safe to estimate that each paper was read by at least four persons and this would bring the total count to more than 10 millions.

It is an undisputable fact that these 10 million of people did not attend the festival, but equally undisputable is the fact that Ulster county received the most far-reaching mass publicity in its modern history.

The column "My Day" appeared in 33 national newspapers in 19 states, according to a check of press clippings. There may be more, but to date they have not been received.

FREE SPEECH FOR FREE MEN

Everything considered, it is well that the federal Senate and Department of Justice are looking into that free speech problem in Jersey City. But to many an old-fashioned American it seems strange that such action should be necessary. For fundamental democratic rights like free speech, free press and free assembly are not merely or primarily federal guarantees. They are personal rights belonging to every citizen. And the normal way to preserve them is the same as the normal way to preserve physical strength. That is, to use it.

The important question here is not so much what the United States government thinks of the Jersey City situation, but what the people of Jersey City think of it and what they propose to do about it. It is "their funeral". It is an old and true saying that "they have rights who dare maintain them." Surely preservation of the right of free speech in any American city is primarily up to the people of that community.

Norman Thomas or some other outsider may invoke court action if he is unlawfully prevented from speaking, but it would be far better if such action were taken by aggrieved citizens of Jersey City. If rights are being denied, it is primarily their rights, and they are the victims. This is the natural American way of doing things. Reform begins at home. Are there no local citizens interested enough to go to the polls and the courts and compel observance of state and federal liberties? If not, either the mayor must be unjustly accused or else civic virtue must have sunk to a very lowebb.

RADIO WISDOM

An official of one of the country's big broadcasting companies who is opposed to any definite program of propaganda for South America says "the best propaganda is no propaganda." Our South American neighbors, he adds, are already tired of the European bombardment of propaganda to win their favor. An unfavorable reaction is setting in against the best efforts of the European governments. If we started similar radio programs at this point we might suffer much of the disfavor without any of the desired benefits.

South Americans, however, like good entertainment as much as anybody. Our really good programs will interest audiences there and will be of value in developing mutual understanding and good feeling. There are no radio programs in the world better than the ones broadcast under this country's commercial set-up, say the broadcasters. They are probably right, although many radio listeners in the United States have begun to "react unfavorably" toward the excessive advertising and the general noisiness and aggressiveness of the commercial features.

Radio is still young and may learn from its own mistakes and improve with experience. Its opportunities for presenting first class entertainment and excellent educational features are unlimited. The better job it does, the more listeners it will have, in the United States and in foreign lands.

MEMORIAL DAY ECHOES

Memorial Day will bring up, among other things, recollections of the tragic riot, or massacre—according to how you happen to look at it—with which the holiday was celebrated in South Chicago last year. Echoes of that event still reverberate in the news.

Here is one of the latest echoes. The other day four more suits were filed, on behalf of four workmen alleged to have been injured wrongfully by police and guards while engaged in what the employees and their friends have always maintained was a peaceful parade. That makes 20 such court actions taken in behalf of dead or wounded victims. Damages claimed by the plaintiffs against the steel company total $800,000. Eight more suits are expected, so that the claims may exceed $1,000,000.

In view of these demands, it seems strange that no such suits have been entered against the city of Chicago, for the allegedly illegal conduct of its police. Or perhaps that has been done. A policeman isn't supposed to have any more right to use violence than a private person. Of course self-defense is claimed in all these cases. The courts will decide that point.

MONEY DWINDLES

Lord Beaverbrook, the English newspaper magnate, who owns the biggest daily in the world, seems optimistic about Britain paying its war debt of $5,300,000,000 to the United States. Obviously it cannot pay just now, he explains, with its national debt as big as ours and an imperative rearmament plan under way that is being financed mainly from current income. But he assures us that a day will come when the debt will be wiped out "on terms satisfactory to American taxpayers."

We could use the money very nicely, any time that Britain can get around to paying. The great increase in our own national debt makes foreign contributions very welcome. Yet there is something in the very magnitude of these modern public debts that dulls minds and consciences and would make payment on the old basis seem unimportant. Shall we ever regain our lost sense of the value of dollars?

SAVING NIAGARA

Canadian officials are seeking cooperation of the United States in remedial works to prevent further serious erosion at Niagara Falls. There have been a number of landslides in recent years which have greatly altered the contour and appearance of the Falls. More are expected.

Some erosion is inevitable, but some may be preventable. The scenic values of Niagara Falls are great and worth preserving. In 1931 effort was made to have Canada and the United States work together on this task, but our own Senate Foreign Relations Committee defeated the proposal. It would be a great mistake to leave undone anything which would protect the beauty and grandeur of Niagara Falls. If engineers know what to do, the two peoples and their governments should speed its accomplishment.

Europe is coming to believe again in the divine right of minority government.

TREATMENT FOR ACNE
 I write frequently about acne—pimples—because this skin eruption occurs when the boy and girl are entering manhood and womanhood, and, particularly in the case of girls, when their appearance means so much to them. It is estimated that about 60 per cent of boys and about 50 per cent of girls, have some pimples, which may last until they are 25 or 30 years of age, certainly a most important time in life from the standpoint of social and business life.

Now what are pimples and what causes them? The skin needs oil to keep it soft and pliable and at this age—puberty—there is increased action of the skin surface, particularly about these little glands that make the oil for the skin. However, at puberty, the little hard skin cells about the openings of these glands onto the skin become harder and thicker (like the hard tissue in a corn), so that the little openings from the oil glands get crowded, the oil thickens and can't pour out onto the skin. Instead of being in a fluid state it becomes solid so that if the little oil well is pressed a white, wax-like thread or "worm" comes out. As the skin gets dusty or dirty, this white stuff has a black top and so it is called a "blackhead". As this white oil is really a "plug" to the opening of the gland, the oil behind it, ready to come out on the skin, doesn't move and becomes infected by little pus-making organisms.

Dr. L. Orecklin, Detroit, in Medical World, says, "An imbalance of the glands (lack of balance among the various gland systems—thyroid, sex, pituitary and others) is considered to be the underlying cause of acne. Because of this imbalance, these little oil glands become irritated by substances that normally should cause no irritation."

In the treatment of acne, the general health is important as many acne patients are constipated, may eat too much of the wrong foods—candy, chocolate, cheese, nuts—may have thin blood, or may have some low infection present.

Although many physicians have considerable success with the use of vitamin, pituitary and other gland extracts, Dr. Orecklin, in agreement with most physicians, states that any case of acne that does not improve within a few months under the usual treatment should have X-ray treatment. The X-ray acts by preventing this overactivity of the oil glands and the pus and organisms are gradually cleared away by the circulation of the blood.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Unscrupulous Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quannomet, is murdered by a left handed blow from her sister's knife. Suspected Pam Fry disappears because an unknown person who smokes Turkish tobacco is trailing her to discover the whereabouts of $50,000 worth of ambergris she found the day of the murder. Agreeable Tim Carr, a boarder at the Frye's Octagon House, is left handed, smokes Turkish tobacco, and hated Marina. Assey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, eavesdrops outside the Woman's Exchange on gabby Nettie Hobbs who swears Pam is the murderer. Peggy Boone, an artist, tells Nettie she is a liar. Then Roddy Strutt, whose plane smashed in the square the night before, paid Nettie to keep his name out of her story.

Chapter 18

Roddy's Check

Assey was brought to earth by Nettie's voice at his elbow.

"What do you think you're doing?"

"What's that?" Assey hastily put on the gold rimmed glasses before turning around. "What's that?"

"What do you think you're doing?" Nettie raised her voice, and Assey promptly took his cue.

"What say?"

"What are you doing?" Nettie bellowed.

"Painting," Assey said, gently.

"Who told you to paint here? What do you mean, trespassing and defacing my property—get away, before I call the constable!"

"What say?" Assey asked.

"What's that? I'm a mile hard of hearing, marm."

He made her repeat it five times, and then he assumed an injured expression.

"You mean, this ain't the Red Men's Hall?"

"It's the Woman's Exchange!" Nettie yelled. "The Woman's Exchange! Woman's Exchange!"

"They do?" Assey said. "I want to know, now!"

"You deaf old fool, this isn't the Red Men's Hall, this is—"

"Then if it ain't the Red Men's Hall," Assey peered down at her, "then you owe me fifty cents for time, and a quarter for paint. I'll make it sixty cents cash money."

Flashed from sheer exhaustion, she gazed at the sixty cents. Assey pocketed it gravely, and removed himself and his cans.

It was no task to mingle with the crowd until Nettie emerged from the alley, and he could hardly have helped joining in with the young mob that followed her up the street to the bank.

Parking his paint cans on the back doorstep, Assey strolled in the bank's rear door and knocked on the glass of the president's little cubby hole. He had always wondered why he had allowed himself to be made an honorary director of the bank's main branch, and now, he thought as he waited, he knew.

Seriously Involved

THE account of Roddy Strutt's check, which he had in his hands almost as soon as Nettie deposited it, startled him.

Five thousand dollars, he thought as he picked up his paint cans outside, meant that Roddy was just trying to keep his name out of this affair. It meant that Roddy was seriously involved. Roddy had no reputation for openhandedness. It had taken a court battle to make him pay for smashing up Bill Porter's car in that accident the year before. And yet he'd given Nettie a check for $5,000, just like that!

But, he remembered suddenly, how could Roddy Strutt possibly be involved in this mess? Presumably he was trying to keep his name out of this affair.

Pam knew nothing about the crash, and she would have been told by Nettie if it had occurred before Nettie left Octagon House at ten-thirty. Jennie Mayo said that Roddy had wrecked the plane on his way home from tagging his friend's plane. Marina Lorne had dashed away from the garage, leaving the ambergis in order to see some artist, some friend of Roddy's, who was shortly leaving for New York in a plane, presumably via Providence.

Sorted out, that meant that the artist friend had left between six and seven. Roddy's plane had crashed after ten-thirty. It would not have taken all the intervening time for Roddy to trail the other plane to the airport, and to return to Quannomet. Roddy might, of course, have stopped over en route, but if he had crashed on his return late at night, why on earth was he presenting Nettie with checks, and lavishly promising her more to keep him out of her murder story?

Assey strolled back to the square and to his remote cousin Jerry.

The Pilot Feller

"I've given up," he said. "I've given up. You might as well try to stop Niagara, as these tourists. They don't give a damn how many cars they jam into this place, or how many they bump. They're busted down the ropes, and they're carting off that plane in handfals. You'd think they never seen a plane before. Well, I don't care. I tried to do my duty, but now I've given up. Assey, what in the name of God makes people act this way? What's that plane mean to 'em anyhow? It ain't got a thing to do with the murder or the mural."

"Well," Assey sat down beside him, "what's pickle lines got to do with things? Or flower holders made out of old coffee tins? But people are buyin' pickle lines an' cut-up coffee cans over at the Exchange, like this was the last chance they had to buy 'em in this world. Jerry, what time last night did this plane crash?"

"What are you doing?" Nettie bellowed.

"Between one and two," Jerry said. "It busted up a couple of cars, and bruised up Earl Jennings and some others. It was Roddy that did it, but the pilot feller got hurt the worst."

"Where is he, in the hospital?" Jerry nodded. "Someone got an ambulance and took him over to Pochet. I just heard someone say that Roddy wouldn't even pay the ambulance bill. Said he hadn't ordered it. You know, Assey, I keep hopin' there's a special little corner of Hell all set apart for people like Roddy. Sometimes he's so dumb, you wouldn't believe it. Sometimes he just scatters money. Then again he's so tight with five cents, you'd like to sock him. And say—say, he's so—oh, damn those tourists! Look, they're pullin' that other wing apart!"

Assey suggested that Jerry might be able to stop them, if he really tried.

"I s'pose so," Jerry said. "I s'pose I could, if I put my mind to it. I would, if it was anyone else's plane. Somehow I don't care about Roddy's. I can't see how the town's liable for any damage people do. We never asked him to land his plane here. We say, I wonder if we could sue him for obstructin' town highways?"

"You could always try," Assey said. "While you're at it, collect parkin' fees from him, too. You got signs up sayin' that more'n an hour parkin' is illegal, an' that plane's been there for hours. Nick him. So the pilot's in Pochet?"

"Yes, poor feller," Jerry said. "He'll prob'ly rot there before Roddy takes any notice. He—are you goin'?"

"Yep," Assey picked up his paint cans. "You ain't any idea, Jerry, how many spots there is in this town that needs a little slappin' up with paint."

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—The story of Veloz and Yolanda, is one of the classic, you-can-get-there-if-you-try-hard-enough tales of ballroom dancing. Ten years ago they were winning bronze medals at amateur contests. Then they got married, turned professional, and started after a little four-letter thing called FAME.

They danced in New York, and in Chicago, and in San Francisco. They danced in Kansas City, and Detroit, and in Los Angeles. They began to see their names more frequently in the newspapers. People began saying: "Have you seen Veloz and Yolanda? I wonder where she gets those gorgeous gowns. And how they dance! Before they quite realized it that little four-letter word was trotting at their heels, saying "uncle."

PERHAPS you read about the recital they gave in Carnegie Hall not long ago. People said it couldn't be done—successfully. Through 15 numbers, which represented, roughly, an hour and 15 minutes of continuous dancing, they waltzed and floated and swirled and glided to irresistible music, much of it written by Veloz himself. When the finale came people were amazed.

"But wasn't it tough?" I asked Veloz. "I mean, all that rehearsing and work that must have been necessary." That made Veloz laugh. "No," he said. "It's a matter of fact, we didn't have a chance to rehearse. The hall was busy practically every night. But we were fortunate in having Pancho's orchestra to play for us. He knew all our numbers. He has played them for us frequently."

Here is an item about these two that may prove interesting. When I invaded their suite at the Plaza I expected to enter an atmosphere of the dance world such as you would expect in the habitat of two such prominent figures. Instead, I encountered the casual confusion of a much lived-in apartment. . . . A ping-pong table was set up. . . . There were pictures of race horses all over the walls, including all the big favorites and a couple of young horses, "Red" and "Velolanda," a filly, which they own.

VELOZ and Yolanda are "hoss" conscious. If a sack of feed or a saddle had been in evidence the place would have looked like a paddock. Yolanda, who is dark, wears mostly clothes that are severely dark, relieved by a rhinestone clasp at the throat. With her deep olive complexion and flashing eyes the effect is striking. Veloz lounged comfortably in a trim, dark business suit. He was in fine fettle.

Report Work on Shaft 5 Completed

It is stated that work on Shaft No. 5 of the new Rondout-Delaware water project has been practically completed and that some of the other shafts in this section are well on their way toward completion.

Shaft 5 is located at Plattkill and has a depth of 1010 feet. The contract also included running 200 feet of tunnel each side of the shaft. Shaft and tunnel have been excavated from solid rock.

The work was done by the Frazier-Davis Co. and was started around May 10 a year ago. Contract called for completion of this part of the work in 21 months.

The contract on Shaft 4 at Ireland Corners it is understood is also nearly finished.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 35—Drew

One of the finest steamboats ever to sail the Hudson river under the banner of the People's Line was the famous "Drew," remembered by many of the older generation as a floating palace.

The "Drew" was constructed in 1866 by John Englis and Son of Greenpoint. She was 366 feet, five inches long, had a 47 foot five inch breadth of beam, and was rated at 2,902 gross tons of 2,687 net tons. She was powered by a vertical beam engine with a cylinder diameter of 81 inches and a 14 foot stroke.

Running in line with the steamers "St. John" and "Dean Richmond," on the Albany-New York route, the "Drew" was known as one of the largest and finest of the river steamers built up to that period. She had three tiers of staterooms, a grand saloon with magnificent Corinthian columns supporting the dome, glittering crystal chandeliers furnished with gas generated on the boat, and stairways of San Domingo mahogany.

According to the president of the People's Line, the "Drew" cost more than $600,000, and in the history of activities on the Hudson river she is credited with a long and successful career, carrying passengers up and down the river on her regular run, without serious mishaps.

In 1896 the "Drew" was retired from service and was later dismantled. In August 1901 the magnificent "Drew" was sold to F. H. Gregory and sailed on her last trip—to Perth Amboy, N. J., graveyard of many of the famous Hudson river vessels. She was scheduled to be broken up at this place but on the night of July 4, 1905, the "Drew" caught fire and her career was brought to a flaming end as she was totally destroyed.

Sundown Stories

Christopher Decides

THE ducks were happy and satisfied. They had found a gold watch. They felt that Christopher Columbus Crow had been the one who knew about it all the time, and now if Christopher admitted that he did, it would save him punishment, it would bring him praise.

And yet in his crow heart of hearts he knew it was not so. He had only been fooling the ducks, pretending that there was hidden treasure in the pond.

Should he tell them the truth, or should he pretend? They would never know if he were only pretending—nor would Willy Nilly. The little gnome-like man would only think he had been too quick to blame.

A great question was in his crow heart.

"I didn't know you would find a gold watch," he cawed at last. "I didn't know there was anything in the pond."

But the ducks paid no attention to Christopher's remark. They were only eager to thank him, and to praise him. Even though they were as muddy and wet as could be, even though their webbed feet were weary and sore, even though their wings ached, they were happy.

It was the same with the bears and Sweet Face and Rip. They had found a gold watch buried in the deep mud at the bottom of the pond and it would be a present for their beloved Willy Nilly.

It would be easy enough for Christopher to pretend, even to Willy Nilly, that he knew about this all along. But it wouldn't be honest to pretend such a thing. He would tell them all the truth.

Overstreet Tells
How to be Grown Up

"Am I really grown up?" That question went through the minds of the audience at Temple Emanuel last evening when addressed by Professor Harry Overstreet of the City College of New York. It was the last in a series of three public forums sponsored by the Temple Emanuel Club and the Kingston Jewish Youth Alliance.

"The Art of Being Grown Up," the subject of Mr. Overstreet's address was most interestingly discussed. Being grown up is not just a matter of attaining the age of 21, said the professor, but being mature psychologically speaking is the most important thing in life.

There are six phases through which a person passes from birth to maturity. Some people grow up in one respect more than others and if a person remains in one of the phases without passing on to the next he is spoken of as having arrested development.

A child is born into the world with a physical apparatus which must be developed to coordinate and with a vocal mechanism which also takes time to develop. These two processes from uncoordination to coordination take place at an early age.

A third process is achieving emotional control, the fourth a matter of growth from dense ignorance to knowledge, the fifth stage growing vocationally from doing little jobs around the house without pay in which a sense of obligation is developed to providing for oneself, and the sixth stage growing up socially from an ego-centered individual to a socialized one. "Life is grown up only as it passes through these various stages," he said.

"How can you tell if a person is grown up?" he asked and then answered by saying that a person should be examined in all the major aspects of life, physical, verbal, emotional, sexual, intellectual and social.

Even though a person does successfully pass through these stages there is a danger of a regression in the development, instead of continuing the development in all the stages. "A great majority of the people miss growing up in the area of speech," said Professor Overstreet.

Another form of "ungrownupness" in an adult is emotionally.

Carrying out the theme of Africa, which has been the study subject undertaken this year, the banquet committee, comprised of Mrs. Everett Schutt, Miss Rena Finn and Mrs. A. L. Berwin, had arranged a centerpiece which extended nearly the length of the long table. It was a replica of an African village with grass huts, warriors, and animals native to Africa. The place cards were outlined maps of Africa and the favors were two wheeled carts made of candy, drawn by toy animals and driven by negro dolls.

Assisting the committee in the arrangements were Miss Frieda Hayes, Mrs. Harry Kernan and Miss Winifred Sullivan.

African dances around the room completed the decorations.

Following the banquet a business meeting was held, during which officers were elected for the coming year: President, Miss Anna Mae Decker; vice president, Miss Sadie Schutt; secretary, Mrs. Harry Kernan; and treasurer, Miss Florence Finn.

A social hour of games followed the business meeting and brought to a close another successful year for the club.

Presbyterians Honor Methodism Founder

Philadelphia, May 24 (AP)—Preliminary sessions of the annual meeting of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. opened today with a celebration of the founding of Methodism.

The Presbyterians arranged several evangelistic conferences in observance of the "Aldersgate heart-warming" of John Wesley in London 200 years ago today.

Wesley's spiritual experience that day led to his withdrawal from the Church of England and the birth of Methodism.

Methodists, Baptists, Lutherans, Episcopalians, Moravians and members of other denominations joined Presbyterians in the celebration. It was said to be the first time in the history of the Presbyterian Church that several leading communions took part in meetings connected with the annual convention.

The general council, permanent deliberative body of the Presbyterian Church, convened today to prepare recommendations for the general assembly, which opens formally on Thursday. About 1,000 ministerial and lay delegates will participate in the assembly's 150th meeting.

TURN TO LOVED POEMS FOR CHEER

Etching by M. Ryerson, Courtesy Associated American Artists, N. Y.

"Life has loveliness to sell—
... children's faces looking up Holding wonder like a cup."

Life is dull? Verses like this one by Sara Teasdale remind you life can be beautiful, stirring.

With poetry you can make each day an adventure. Let your motto be this verse:

"Don't tell me of tomorrow! Give me the man who'll say, That when a good deed's to be done, 'Let's do the deed today!'"

Borrow courage from Kipling's immortal "If". "If you can wait and not be tired by waiting..." Or being hated, don't give way to hating.

And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise—"In simple love there is power, says this verse by James Thomson: "Give a man a girl he can love, As I, my Love, love thee; And his hand is great with the pulse of Fate."

At home, on land, on sea," In this verse by Longfellow is the key to winning friends: "I breathed a song into the air, It fell to earth, I knew not where; . . . the song, from beginning to end, I found again in the heart of a friend."

The club is now arranging a program of entertainment to be given at the home for the Aged on Thursday afternoon, June 2, at 4 o'clock. On Monday, June 6, the club will motor to Highland, where they will be the guests of the Reading Circle of that village.

The annual reports of the officers showed that the club had enjoyed an active year and had closed the year with a substantial sum in the treasury.

Following the business meeting a social evening of games was enjoyed and refreshments served. The meeting was largely attended.

Attended Legion Dinner.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman, Police Commissioner John H. Sterley, City Treasurer Lester C. Elmsendorf, Deputy City Clerk Nelson Snyder, Commander Harry Kitchner and Lester Vogel were some of the Kingstons who attended the dinner given in honor of State Commander Jerry Cross of the American Legion, at Wallkill Monday evening. The dinner was served in the Community Hall, and the speaking program in the high school auditorium. State Commander Cross gave an interesting talk on Americanism.

The dinner was held under the auspices of the Ulster County American Legion.

For All Who Pass !!

Two neighbors went to shop one day. They had the same to spend.

One bought gay buds to fill a bowl at dinner, with a friend. The other said: "I'll buy some seeds, and 'neath a sunny sky. They'll grow and blossom many years, and cheer each passer-by."

Though rare the blooms the first one bought their beauty could not stay.

The dawn revealed their withered forms and they were thrown away.

The second's garden always claims the world's admiring glances.

One spreads much joy, the other none, and theirs were self-same chances.—Lyla Myers.

Mrs. Justwed—I can't help feeling jealous of my husband's first love.

Mrs. Longwed—My husband's first love doesn't bother me any, it's his next love that I worry about.

Read it or not:

Nearly half of the radio stations in the United States are controlled by three companies, National Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System, and Mutual Broadcasting System.

A small girl who detested milk-pudding had been made to eat some for lunch. She asked if she could get down and was told to say her grace.

Small Girl (sulkily)—But I've nothing to be thankful for.

Mother—Very well, my dear. Just remain where you are.

There was silence for a few minutes; then a little voice said: Little Girl—Thank God I wasn't sick. Now may I get down?

Popular Young Girl—I've a friend I'd like you girls to meet. Athletic Girl—What can he do? Chorus Girl—How much has he?

Literary Girl—What does he read?

Society Girl—Who are his family?

Religious Girl—What church does he belong to?

Sorority Girl—Where is he?

Sweet Young Thing—Handsome, my life is just like an open book!

Handsome—Humph! Then why are you on the shelf?

If stupidity were a crime, we would all spend time in jail.

The stingiest man was lecturing the hired man for wanting to carry a lantern on going to call on his stingy girl.

Stingiest Man (scowling)—The idea! When I was courting I never carried a lantern. I went in the dark.

The Hired Man proceeded to fill the lantern.

Hired Man (sighing)—Yes, and look what you got.

Remember the days when people used to fight for the privilege of exercising rights to buy more stock?

Boy Friend—Do you know how to keep your chin up?

Sweet Young Thing—I sure do. I keep it up with cold cream and face powder.

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—June Evans is a dressmaker's clerk, Tommy Bradford a travel bureau employee. Each in the course of duty is present at the fashionable wedding of Nadine Piermont, and when they meet, each thinks the other is "high society."

"Hold That Kiss" is the detailing of what springs from this familiar plot beginning, and it is a light comedy which audiences should find delightful, dressed smartly and alternating in humor from chuckles to howls.

The picture, directed by Edwin L. Marin, is rich in comic situation and incident, and its trusty plot skeleton is nicely enough padded with freshness that it seldom rattles. Part of its ingratiating quality may be due to its back-to-normal presentation of family life—June's family is like a lot of others, not merely a weird assortment of happy nitwits assembled for riding on the "insane comedy" cycle.

Another asset is that "Hold That Kiss" is a genuine neoplopic—the fetching Maureen O'Sullivan, the sturdy Dennis O'Keefe (until "Bad Man of Brimstone" an extra) in the romantic roles, and a supporting cast which shines individually without throwing the production off balance. M. Key Rooney as the clarinet-playing kid brother does the impossible with his face, gets a large share of the howls. George Barbier, Jessie Ralph, Edward S. Brophy, Fay Holden, Frank Albertson, Phillip Terry, Barnett Parker are others.

A Popular 'Melter'

"Crime School" is equally tailored to popular taste along melodramatic lines—a juvenile version of the ever popular prison picture. Where "Dead End" left off "Crime School" takes up the careers of a similar group of young toughies, here played by odd coincidence by the same stage and movie gang who appeared in "Dead End."

The boys land in a reformatory, where Humphrey Bogart, the gangster of "Dead End," takes on shining armor as a militant champion of right ways to effect reform, opposed to strong-arm, criminal-making methods.

Properly Titled

More miss than Swiss is "Swiss Miss," first Laurel and Hardy feature in a year, and least satisfying venture in their long careers. And it is very Swiss, in setting at least. The comedy pair arrive in an Alpine village as mousetrap peddlers, wind up as kitchen help in a hotel.

The Queen Mary is expected to sail for 25 years.

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Crime School"

The slum sections of America's great cities where boys develop their training to be the vicious criminals of tomorrow is probed with a searching eye by Warner Brothers in this gripping story of a group of young boys who get their criminal training in the gutters and who know no law but the law of gangland. The film also portrays the life that goes on in the nation's reformatories and suggests that these places are but steps up the ladder of criminal development. Much of the play's vitality is due to the acting genius of the famous "Dead End Kids" and Humphrey Bogart is also featured in a large cast of lesser players. Here is a timely picture that is both entertaining and valuable from the reformist viewpoint.

Kingsford: "Gaiety Girls" and "Extortion." Jack Hulbert, known in England as an actor, director and producer, is featured along with Patricia Ellis in the first film at the Kingston, a British-made musical comedy. "Extortion" exposes another vicious American racket and heading the cast of players are Mary Russell and Scott Colton.

Orpheum—"I Met My Love Again." A tragic love story of a boy and girl in love who break up, go their separate ways and meet again years later in the city of the plot in "I Met My Love Again," starring Henry Fonda and Joan Bennett. "Port of Missing Girls" is the associate feature with an all star cast.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Battle of Broadway." How the battling Legionnaires take New York city by storm is disclosed in the bristling comedy effort at the Broadway with Victor McLaglen and Brian Donlevy slugging off for supremacy over everything in sight. It's a mad, reckless picture with much noise, much lusty romance and much rough humor and others in the cast include Louise Hovick and Raymond Walburn.

Kingsford: "Tip-Off Girls" and "Night Spot." Two more of the usual double features are to be witnessed at the uptown theatre with Mary Carlisle, Lloyd Noland and J. Carroll Nash featured in the first one, an expose of a big city racket that is cleaned up before the final curtain. "Night Spot" is a sidelight into the entertainment world featuring Parkyakarkus of radio fame.

Orpheum: "Dance." A musical comedy that is also a fashion parade and also somewhat weary from age is the main feature at the Orpheum that revives the once famous starring team of Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler and also features Joan Blondell. This is a Warner Brothers production and was one of the leaders in yesterday's trend to musical extravaganzas.

In the reign of Richard I scholars were maintained at Oxford by royal bounty.

General Synod At Ashbury Park From June 2-7

The general synod of the Reformed Church in America will be held at Ashbury Park, N. J., June 2 to 7, and an interesting program has been arranged for all of the sessions.

Among the speakers at the synod will be the Rev. George William Brown, secretary of the American Bible Society, who will speak for his society on Friday morning. The Rev. George Steinger of South Brooklyn will speak at the public meeting that evening in the place of the Rev. C. D. Muste, D. D., as announced.

The board of domestic missions will give a reception to the delegates and visitors at the Monterey Hotel on Saturday morning, and there will be an informal dinner to women of the denomination on Friday evening, June 3.

Several overtures from various classes will bring the following matters before the synod for action. Several classes want a reduction in the assessments. The subject of church unity is the burden of several overtures, some asking for a committee or a commission on the subject, others want to participate in a movement for a world organization of the Christian Church. New Brunswick Theological Seminary wants permission to change the plan for board members. There are overtures against gambling and the exporting of ammunition. This is in addition to the regular work of the synod.

Ulster county delegates to the synod are:

Primarily—The Rev. John Neander, Saugerties, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, Woodstock, the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, 52 Main street, Kingston, Elder Edwin P. Cole, Saugerties, Elder George W. Riseley, Woodstock, Elder Bart H. Houghtaling, 136 St. James street, Kingston.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, May 24—Plans have been made by the members of Charles Vieby Post of the American Legion for Memorial Day celebration. The veterans early Monday morning will visit cemeteries at Cedar Hill, Lattintown, Riverside and Milton. Military services will be held over the dead resting in each cemetery and the pastors of the communities will participate by giving short prayers. Other organizations will participate in paying homage to those who have helped form and perpetuate the union. In the afternoon an athletic meet will be held on the high school grounds and a baseball game will also be played.

Eleanor Casaburo, 13-year-old daughter of James Casaburo of the Lattintown road, is suffering from a broken leg as the result of a friendly scramble among school girls last Thursday afternoon, after school was dismissed. The girl, according to witnesses, was among a group playing near the driveway, just as a school bus driven by Charles Ryan started for Cedar Cliff with a load of children. She ran laughing down the slope, struck the fender of the bus and fell. She was not run over. The bus fortunately was moving very slowly and the driver was able to stop instantly. The girl was carried into the school building.

THE STATE OF NEW YORK

Expect 500 Scouts Will Attend Second Camp-o-ree Here

Final plans for the second annual Camp-o-ree of the Boy Scouts of Ulster and Greene counties are rapidly being completed in preparation for the big three-day show on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 3, 4 and 5.

This second annual affair will take place on the New York State Armory grounds in Kingston. The enrollment continues to increase. The northern district will have at least five units in camp with about 80 scouts; the mountain district will have four units in camp with about 65 scouts; the western district will have three units in camp with about 40 scouts; the Saugerties district will have at least three units in camp with about 50 scouts; the southern district will have at least three units in camp with about 50 scouts; the Rondout valley district will have at least three units in camp with about 50 scouts and the Kingston district will have all units present with well over 200 scouts. This will give a total registration of some 30 units and some over 500 boys.

The big camp will open Friday with the troops arriving Friday afternoon, making their camp, cooking their supper and preparing for the first event of various district camp-fires on Friday night.

There are several features of the Camp-o-ree this year including the big mass camp fire on Saturday night when there will be special entertainment in which all scouts participate and on Saturday afternoon will be the parade with over 400 boys and at least five bands in the line of march. This parade will leave the armory grounds at 4:30 sharp and the line of march will take it past the Gov. Clinton Hotel, through part of the uptown business section and returning to the grounds. Several troops are developing floats and no doubt this parade will be the most outstanding ever seen in the city of Kingston in many years.

On Saturday morning the troops will have a series of contests and events in the field as well as historical hikes which have been planned for the various units so that they might visit some of the old historical buildings in the city. Saturday afternoon will stage a demonstration show in the arena in which many troops will show a variety of activities in which they participate.

Sunday will find the day well observed. In the morning arrangements have been made for a field Mass for the Catholic scouts while the other scouts will participate in a service presided over by some of the camp officials. Both of these services will take place at the same hour.

The closing event of the Camp-o-ree will be the grand assembly on Sunday afternoon and the presentation of certificates to troops who have met various requirements of the Camp-o-ree.

Once in a while comes a "natural" like this!

EVERY DECADE or so, some manufacturer produces a "natural"—a feature so good that all others adopt it, because the public just won't do without it. Safety Shift is such a feature, as next year's cars will prove. So why penalize yourself in resale value—why deprive yourself of driving thrills right now? Get a Pontiac with Safety Shift and get everything you want at a price you can easily pay. Incidentally, the big, eye-stopping Pontiac's the answer for economy, too—owners say "18 to 24 miles per gallon!"

In all this talk about SERVICE, the American Oil Company would like to emphasize this great truth:

It's what goes with the smile that counts

It's a great day for service. And you can hardly pick up an advertisement of an oil company without seeing the word.

Service is important. But from some of the ads you read you'd think it was invented yesterday.

Our dealers were wiping windshields before there were advertising campaigns about it. They've been checking tires, and filling radiators... "watering" batteries... cleaning headlamps for a long time. They were smiling at customers before the smile became the great new discovery. They have been doing these things all along, but haven't been making much noise about it.

We believe you're entitled to good service—and with a smile. But... it's what goes with the smile that counts.

The service our products give is just as important as the service rendered by our dealers. Amoco-Gas, the original special motor fuel, has been rendering a service per dollar that has never been equalled by any other motor fuel or gasoline. Orange American Gas has set a new measure of service for regular gasolines.

Without maximum service from the products themselves, all other features of service pale into insignificance.

Lay and Clerical Leaders Condemn Oppression of Jews

New York, May 23.—One hundred and thirty-seven lay and clerical leaders representing important communities in 29 states of the Union, joined today in a public statement condemning the oppression to which millions of Jews are being subjected in many parts of the world as "a blot upon the civilization of our time."

In their declaration, in which bishops and the presidents of colleges joined the Christian leaders, they called attention to the fact that what is happening to the Jews is the right of the Christian world as "the symbol of the efforts being made to destroy democracy, peace and humanity."

In a message addressed to Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress, the Christian leaders extend their profoundest sympathy to suffering Jews and "half the efforts of our fellow Americans associated with the American Jewish Congress to unite the resources of the Jewish community in a democratic front against anti-Semitism."

The statement in its full text declares: "We representatives of the Christian faith in America publicly condemn the oppression to which millions of Jews are being subjected as a blot on the civilization of our time. The brutal disregard of human rights, and the dignity of human life, wherein Jews are concerned, in so many sections of the world, is the right of the Christian Church. The history of the world has shown us, and the history of the past five years has reminded us, that civilization itself is endangered when the foundations of civilized society are destroyed in any section of the world. What is happening to the Jewish people, tragic as it is for millions of them, is even more tragic to the world at large as a symbol of the efforts which are being made to destroy democracy, peace and humanity itself."

"As Christian ministers and laymen, we extend our profoundest sympathy to suffering Jews. We hail the efforts of our fellow Americans associated with the American Jewish Congress to unite the resources of the Jewish community in a democratic front against anti-Semitism. In seeking to create a democratic agency to represent the Jewish people and to devise a program for the protection of the rights of Jews, the American Jewish Congress is upholding the highest traditions of American democracy. Its efforts deserve the sympathetic support of Americans of all faiths, which we hope will be forthcoming."

Dr. Charles R. Brown, Dean Emeritus of the Divinity School of Yale University, who is one of the signatories to the statement, declares in a communication to Dr. Wise:

"I wish that such expressions of sentiment on the part of right-minded people, Hebrew and Christian alike, might have weight with those who are responsible for this release into barbarism. It almost makes one despair of the future and the fate of what we are pleased to call 'civilization.' It is a terrible burden on all our hearts and a reproach to the whole human race to think that we have not gotten beyond such wholesale crimes as those which are being committed these days in so many parts of the world."

Violence Feared Today In Newspaper Strike

Duluth, Minn., May 24 (AP).—Two companies of National Guards were under orders to be ready for possible services here today as new violence was threatened in the Duluth Herald and News-Tribune newspaper strike.

The management, which yesterday resumed publication for the first time since it was halted by a Lake Superior newspaper guild strike April 8, announced the Herald would be issued again today. Guild members and their supporters retorted they would again throw a mass picket line around the plant.

Resumption of publication over the protests of 300 pickets yesterday precipitated a fight in which the pickets and a crowd of onlookers were routed by police tear gas.

Places Blame

Chicago, May 24 (AP).—Responsibility for troubled labor relations in the merchant marine was placed today by Max O'Rell Trull, United States Maritime Commission member, largely upon "certain shipowners who permitted unsatisfactory conditions to continue and repressed their men to the point where an explosion was bound to occur."

"I am afraid some shipowners, while giving lip service to the principle of collective bargaining, are at the same time doing much to disrupt the employer-employee relationship," he told the Traffic Club and the Ocean Freight and Passenger Agents association in a prepared address.

County Society Is Seeking Revival In Its Activities

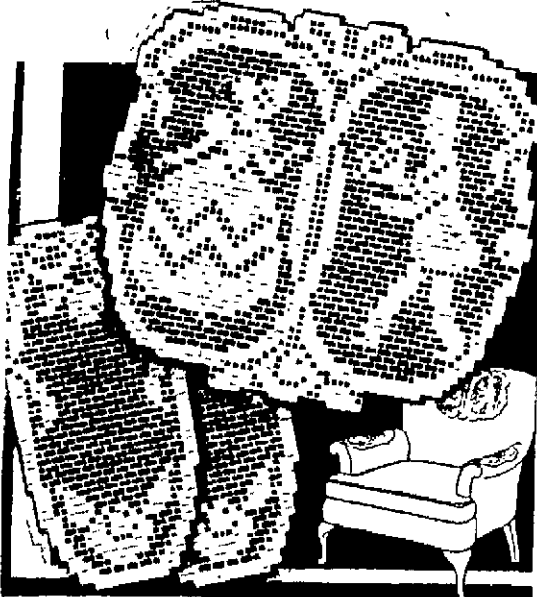

Rufus C. Van Aken, president of the Ulster County Society in New York City, is planning a campaign to rejuvenate the society. He has mailed letters to membership of the society, including the non-resident members located throughout Ulster county.

President Van Aken in his communication says: "Constructive suggestions will be very welcome. Let our motto be: If you must kick—kick toward the goal."

"Due to the economic turbulence of the few years last past the society, akin to that Catskill Mountain legendary fellow Rip Van Winkle, has been slumbering—true not so long nor so soundly, but nevertheless it has been a bit somnolent. Now is the time to throw off the lethargy and set to the task of revitalizing the membership," he writes.

There is little evidence that man walked on all fours in his early evolution, but definite evidence he once lived in trees, says Dr. Franz Weidenreich, honorary director of the Cenozoic Research laboratory of Peiping, China.

World's Fair Car, Good Will Courier, Visits Here May 28

The World's Fair "Good Will Courier," which since May 3 has been touring New York state, visiting all towns of 10,000 or more, is due to arrive in Kingston Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

At a meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel this morning arrangements were made to properly welcome the Good-Will car and driver and escort it to the mayor's office, then to the Governor Clinton Hotel. Chief of Police Wood and Sheriff Holyneaux will furnish escorts to meet the car at the Sleightsburgh bridge and head a parade which will include decorated cars entered by Roy M. Sullivan, of Colonial City Chevrolet, Ralph K. Ballard, of the Texas Co., E. H. Fowler, Yale and Towne dealer, Harris Brown, of Brown's Servicenter, dealer in U. S. cars, Raymond Gross, of the Governor Clinton, and Wilson Boyce, of the Ulster County Automobile Club.

The Good-Will car, a Chevrolet sedan, which will carry an exhibit featuring the pylon and sphere which will make up the Theme Building at the World's Fair, will be escorted to the mayor's office, where Mayor Heitsman will sign the "roll of honor" which has been signed by mayors of the various cities which have been visited in the tour. The parade will then continue up Broadway to the Governor Clinton Hotel, where a message from Grover Whalen, president of the World's Fair, will be broadcast. Later during the day the car will be parked at the different business places represented by those participating in the parade and the broadcast of the message will be repeated.

The Good-Will Chevrolet started from Albany on May 3 and has about completed its tour of the state. Leaving Kingston it will go to Catskill, Hudson, Rensselaer and then to Albany on May 31, having covered 2,000 miles since it started out.

Cars entering the parade on Saturday will be decorated in blue and yellow, World Fair colors.

May 31 Last Day To Pay 1938 Taxes

Only five days remain for the second or final payment of the 1938 city taxes.

Tuesday, May 31, is the last day on which taxes may be paid without penalty.

If the tax is not paid by next Tuesday, a 2 per cent penalty must be imposed under the law.

Taxpayers may eliminate the possibility of being required to stand in line in the last minute rush in the Treasurer's Office if they pay their taxes during the next few days.

The treasurer's office will remain open Friday evening, May 27, from 7 to 9 o'clock for the convenience of taxpayers who are unable to pay their taxes during the regular office hours.

Good Advice About Constipation!

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, don't fiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble! Chances are you won't have to look very far, if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely, you don't get enough "bulk!" And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regular" All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Says He Was 'Too Impulsive' in Case

New York, May 24 (AP).—Municipal Court Justice Arthur P. McNulty testified today that he had been "too impulsive" in seeking to spare Simon W. Gerson, Communist politician and aide to Manhattan Borough President Stanley Isaacs, unfavorable publicity in a rent case.

Justice McNulty was questioned by Theodore Kiendl, referee in the Appellate Division's inquiry into the circumstances of the change of Gerson's name to "Gilson" on a Municipal court decision against him.

Held in contempt last week by the joint legislative committee on law enforcement for refusing to testify, the justice said he was now willing to answer the questions of that committee.

McNulty reiterated that while he had come to see Municipal Court Justice John J. O'Rourke, "with the primary idea of avoiding publication of his (O'Rourke's) opinion" in Gerson's rent case, he had no responsibility for the use of the name "Gilson."

At the conclusion of his testimony before the referee, McNulty said:

"I want to state for the record that I have never had any political or business association with Mr. Gerson. I never visited his home, and I just met him at public functions. I had no desire to influence any judicial process or to bring about any change in name."

"My thought solely was that the publication of a memorandum might work at undue hardship on Gerson. I have since given the matter considerable reflection and I think that what I did, although from the best of motives, was impulsive, too impulsive, and I regret what I did."

Justice O'Rourke, who wrote the opinion in the rent case in which the name Gilson was substituted for Gerson, told Kiendl that he thought he was acting within his authority in conveying Gerson's identity on the opinion.

priming funds for rivers and harbors and flood control projects.

The New Yorker said these projects already had been approved by army engineers and could be initiated promptly.

He said he would offer his proposal as an amendment to the $3,000,000,000 spending and lending bill which was up for its second day of debate on the Senate floor.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) joined the debate with an attack on the proposal of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) to substitute federal aid grants to states for the present Works Progress Administration system.

McKellar said Vandenberg's amendment would create a "uncoordinated political organization" to distribute relief in the various states and the District of Columbia.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, May 24 (AP).—Selected stocks made motions toward a modest rally in today's market, but the list generally lacked climbing power.

There was a slight forward tilt after a hesitant opening. Buying failed to follow through, however, and prices finally turned highly irregular near the final hour.

Volume was only a shade above yesterday's aggregate which was the smallest in nearly four years. Transfers were at the rate of about 300,000 shares.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Foreign securities markets displayed a steadier tone.

A few aircraft, copper, utility, rail and specialty shares were favored. Numerous issues were about unchanged, including the major stocks eventually.

Among some eventually gave way—were Douglas Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright "A", Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N. J., Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Westinghouse, du Pont, American Can, U. S. Gypsum and Johns-Manville.

Philip Morris shares opened 1 1/2 hours late, up more than a point, although the company reported for the fiscal year ended March 31, profit of $10.9 million, a share compared with $8.8 in the preceding period. The concern also announced an offering of new preferred stock to pay off bank loans and add to working capital.

Hurley Pastor Is Men's Club Speaker

The Men's Club of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, last night at its regular monthly meeting, had as speaker of the evening the Rev. Chester Chilton of the Hurley Reformed Church. Men of the Wurts Street Baptist Church were present as guests of the Albany Avenue Club to hear Mr. Chilton speak on the topic: "Man Alive; But Why?"

The speaker prefaced his address with congratulations to William S. Jackson, of the Albany Avenue group, as his successor to the office of president of the Federation of Men's Clubs, and assured Mr. Jackson of the utmost cooperation and help on his part.

Enlarging on his topic in his usual interesting and forceful manner, Mr. Chilton said that the philosophy of man had developed from the ancient "Live-Kill if you must—But live" stage to the modern "Live-Live if you can" stage. He extended his thanks to the Christian attitude of "Live and help live."

Mr. Chilton's theme was that even today in a supposedly enlightened world the three philosophies still endured; the first in the dominance of dictatorial and militant countries over their people; the last two among our own friends and neighbors.

He spoke briefly of his recent visit to the United States and of all sections of the United States, saying that his contact with diversified congregations in different parts of the country only emphasized the need and worth of a greater practice of the Live and help live philosophy, and that it was up to the men of the church to extend that Christian doctrine.

His illustrations of the worth and need of people who were not content to live for themselves alone, but lived socially and helped others were direct and self-explanatory.

The speaker closed his address by stressing the need of combating pessimism induced by world conditions, and spoke of the happiness resulting from the practice of an optimistic Christian life.

The club then adjourned for a social hour of darts and refreshments.

Carroll Escapes Death Penalty on Prosecutor's Plea

New York, May 24 (AP)—Pale and solemn, 16-year-old Donald Carroll today escaped possible death in the electric chair when the state called for a "fair and just verdict without meaning the death penalty," in connection with the slaying of his stenographer sweetheart, Charlotte Mathieson, 18.

Prosecutor Joseph V. Loscalzo, in a 12-minute opening address, told the all-male jury:

"I realize you men are weighed down by sympathy, and frankly I say to you I am of the same feeling."

The mother of the slain girl, sitting with Donald's parents in the courtroom, wept as Loscalzo reviewed the events of March 24 when he said Donald shot his sweetheart with his father's army revolver in an unfulfilled suicide pact "because we decided death was the only way out for us both."

They decided on the death pact, Loscalzo said, when they discovered that Charlotte was pregnant and they were caught up in despair at their poverty and youth.

Donald drooped in his chair, leaning his head against his hands and staring at the floor as the prosecutor, after expressing sympathy, continued in a sterner voice.

Loscalzo said he assumed from questions asked by Defense Attorney Sydney Rosenthal during the selection of jurors that the defense would base its case on "temporary insanity, love insanity or emotional insanity."

In conclusion, he urged the jury to bring in a verdict "with regard to how it might harm or hurt anyone."

Supreme Court Trial Term Ends Here This Week

This week will conclude the trial work for the May term of Supreme Court but because of the large number of cases now ready for trial which cannot be reached, Justice Harry E. Schrick is planning to recess the term until October when the jurors for the May term will be returned to continue the term. Scheduled for a trial term in Columbia county in October, Justice Schrick will attempt to have another justice assigned to that term or have the October term continued for another year.

Because of the constitutional convention now being held in 1938 schedule for trial terms eliminated the October term in Ulster county. Activity of the May day calendar indicates that there are several important cases which cannot be reached this week and which should be disposed of before the December term, the next regularly scheduled trial term in Ulster. In order to take care of these cases Justice Schrick is attempting to make arrangements for an adjourned term in October.

There will be a grand jury in attendance at the September term of county court to clean up the usual summer cases. The next grand jury thereafter will be in December.

Among the speakers and discussion leaders from Cornell University are the president, Edmund Ezra Day; Dr. Flora Rose, director of the college of Home Economics; Dr. Margaret Wythe and associates, of the Family Life Department; Dr. Dwight Sanderson, Department of Rural Social Organization, and his staff; Dr. Helen Bull of the medical staff, Dr. Paul Kruse and other members of the Rural Education Department; Dr. James S. Plant, M. D., director of the Essex County Juvenile Clinic; Claude L. Kulp, superintendent of schools in Ithaca; and Miss Esther McGinnis, State Teachers College in Buffalo.

Shokan, May 24.—Miss Ann Ingalls motored here from Brooklyn and spent the week-end at the family summer home on the state road. ELIXIR OF YOUTH GOAL OF AGED MAN

Frenchman, 83, Blends Wine and Secret Powder.

Paris.—Edouard Brandy, illustrious inventor, whom the French credit with having perfected the first radio transmitting and receiving set, wants to discover the secret of eternal youth before he dies.

The 83-year-old scientist will be ninety-four this year, but says he desires to live just five more years to finish his studies. Other than the fewest of details he refuses to divulge exactly how he expects to arrive at the much sought-for formula, but declares he is sure he will live to be over one hundred if he is successful.

Found at work in his laboratory where he still keeps regular hours as he did 60 years ago, Brandy said:

"You see, I am in excellent health. It is because I have a secret." And when asked if it was the secret of youth, half ironically and half amusedly he replied: "Without doubt."

Yellow Powder Connected.

He then pointed to a container filled with a yellow powder. He took a small pinch and put it on the tip of his tongue. He then followed the same procedure with another pinch.

"That," he said when he had finished, "is my secret, that powder. But I can't tell you its name. First, in order to obtain it, it is necessary to be a doctor, for there are men who have taken it and died from the results."

"You understand," he continued, "it is necessary to know how and when to use it. For myself I find it admirable. And after that I have my Saint-Emilion."

When asked what the latter was, he said it was another secret, but that he could give more details concerning that.

Wine Essential to Him.

"Saint-Emilion," he explained, "is the king of wines, which is enriched by voyage. Barrels of it were once sent to Palestine by boat, but it was returned to Bordeaux by the same conveyance. It thus obtained a mellowness, a warmth and bouquet incomparable to its original state. It is not a table wine, but with my powder and several sips of the wine between meals I am sure of prolonging my life."

And there he refused to give any more information concerning either the powder or the wine except that they both must be taken in the correct amounts and at the proper time.

The scientist admits, however, he attributes his age to a great extent to having lived a sane and rigorous regulated life. He is a great believer in vegetables and fruits and has kept the most regular hours for the last 15 years.

I. Q. of Boy, 6, Is Rated Above That of a Genius

Salt Lake City, Utah.—Six-year-old Mario Bowen has an intelligence rated better than that of a genius, according to a standard of psychology tests and measurements, but he doesn't know it—which means something or other.

To know you are a genius substantiates your average intelligence quotient but to not know it reflects an intimation you are not smart enough.

Anyway Mario was tested by Miss Harryette Bercu with a Stanford-Binet intelligence test at the University of Utah and it was determined he rated an I. Q. 43 above genius rating.

The average rating for six-year-olds is listed at 100, 110-120 superior, 120-140 very superior and 140 and above, genius.

Mario was able to measure up successfully to the tests for fourteen-year-olds. He has not yet attended school.

"The requirements include the repeating of sentences, making of designs, rhyming, responding to pictures, solving problem situations, word naming and similar tasks," Miss Bercu said.

"I want to be a mechanic," Mario said.

Rail Linemen Develop Jargon All Their Own

Lincoln, Neb.—Railroad linemen through years of usage have developed a picturesque lingo that is generally incomprehensible to others, D. V. Snapp, of Lincoln, writes in the periodical, American Speech.

Snapp, employed for 37 years by the Burlington, said one phrase used throughout the Middle West on the railroad system is "Give her Nebraska," which means to fill in dirt around a set pole. The word "railroad" means to any linemen "train" coming, clear the track.

"Mooley cow" means the linemen can't hook his strap. A "scared strap" is a safety belt. "Digging tools" refer to knives and forks. A foreman often is termed the "main squeeze" and when the linemen shouts "daylight," he is warning his fellows to get out of the way.

No Mice; Owls Move

Sarnia, Ont.—The white-feathered Arctic owl is being driven south into the warmer Ontario regions because of a shortage of mice in the far North. Scientists say the mice on which the owls dine die in large numbers every four or five years.

Secretary Ickes Weds in Surprise Ceremony Today

Washington, May 24 (AP)—Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, was married today to Miss Jane Dahman, 25, of Milwaukee, in Dublin, Ireland.

The surprise ceremony was performed at 9 a. m., Dublin time (5 a. m., E. S. T.) in the Adelaide Road Presbyterian Church by the Rev. R. K. Hanna.

The newlyweds cabled friends in Washington to announce their wedding. Only the closest of his associates knew Ickes had gone abroad.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Dahman of Milwaukee. Her father is a lawyer there. She graduated with honors from Smith College and has frequently been in Washington.

She has been a White House visitor.

It was at the White House, friends said, that Ickes met his bride-to-be.

Michael W. Straus, Interior Department press chief, said the ceremony took place in Ireland because the bride was visiting her Uncle John Cudahy, United States minister to Ireland. Friends described the bride as beautiful and red-haired.

The bridegroom is 64 years old. Ickes former wife died in an automobile accident at Santa Fe, N. M., on August 31, 1935.

Four Feuds Top Next Friday's Fistic Card at the Auditorium

SOON AND OFTEN

RODNEY BLAKE drew his car up sharply before the tumble-down wooden posts that marked the entrance of the driveway of the old Titus estate. He looked in at the grass-grown gravel driveway that snatched on between a grove of oaks and chestnut trees.

Beyond them a jungle of long neglected shrubbery, that left only an obscure view of the gabled brown-stone mansion.

"Not a very promising prospect," Rodney reflected as he turned into the driveway. "No trespassing allowed. Get out of here!"

First the booming voice and then the menacing figure of a man—powerfully built, though past middle age—came from the shadow of the trees at the side of the driveway. Rodney Blake brought his car to a standstill.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said. "But I didn't know it was trespassing merely to drive in. The gate stood open. You see I merely—"

"I know what you wanted. Others have wanted the same thing but they never get much further. You can back out the same way you came in."

"But I'd like to explain—"

Even if the man did own the property he had no right to order him off that way.

After all, business was business and even as he put his car in reverse and slowly drove back to the main road he felt a deep resentment toward the man who had blocked his way.

Then a hundred feet down the road he saw something white flash out from a break in the straggling overgrown hedge into the bright sunlight of the roadway.

A slender young girl, in a white tennis dress, drew back cautiously toward the hedge and beckoned to him.

He knew at the first glance that she was pretty but when he had driven his car slowly down the road to meet her he realized that she possessed that very rare combination of prettiness and real beauty.

"Quick," she said breathlessly. "I saw him drive off. He's my uncle—Benjamin Titus. He's turned them all away. But he hasn't any right to do it. It's all a dreadful mistake. Because it only makes them suspicious."

"I'm afraid you don't understand, or maybe I don't understand," Rodney was saying. "You see—"

"We haven't time to explain," she hastened to tell him. "My uncle may be watching you. But he had no right to turn you out. There's another way to reach the house—drive a quarter of a mile down the road, turn in a narrow road—a poor road but you can get through. Then at the first turn to the left on that road, park your car and walk back. It's just a footpath but it will bring you to the field behind the house. I'll be waiting for you there."

Rodney tried to tell her that it seemed a long way and that he was really in a hurry.

"Please drive on," she told him, and then disappeared as she had made her first appearance like a flash of something white and unbelievably beautiful through the break in the hedge.

Under the circumstances there was only one thing to do.

Driving slowly down the road he watched the indicator on the dashboard as it gradually got higher and higher, and called himself a fool for not having had the radiator refilled at the last filling station.

Then he turned down the narrow wooded roadway, till he'd reached the path at the left.

There he left his car and went about as the girl had told him till he reached a field of corn stubble.

"I'm Daisy Crane," the girl said as she hurried toward him from the other end of the field.

"I'm Benjamin Titus' niece. And I can give you my word that my uncle isn't in any way involved. That is, he's not criminally involved. Do you believe me?"

"I'd believe anything you wanted me to," Rodney assured her, marveling at the gorgeous golden glint of her wavy-blond hair and the unbelievably beautiful curves of her cheeks and neck.

"But you see—"

"I understand that perfectly," Daisy told him. "I know you've been sent out to get a story, but you don't look as if you'd do anything unless even for the sake of getting a good story. My uncle is a little old and often unreasonable—but as honest as—honest as sunshine. He's terribly independent and resents any sort of intrusion."

"But I didn't mean to intrude—"

"There was a note of contrition in Rodney Blake's voice that for some reason made the color mount to the lovely Daisy Crane's cheeks.

"For months and months," she went on to explain, "these men—poor tramps as he thought—have been coming and going off there in our woods. Uncle even gave them permission to take shelter in an old shack by the stream. When the police came to inspect, Uncle took it as a personal affront. He tried to keep them off. And then, of course, after the counterfeits, or whatever they were, were captured and the police found their loot under the shack—"

"But I don't quite understand," Rodney interrupted. "You see I—"

"Of course you didn't understand. Nobody understood, because Uncle Benjamin wouldn't explain. Naturally everyone thought that because the loot was found on his property and because he ordered everyone off that he was—what do you say?—criminally involved. And any time now, the police or detectives or something of the sort will probably come and force their way into the house. Of course they suspect him because he won't even answer their questions. Uncle loathes the police—but he loathes reporters even more. He just slays down there by the driveway entrance to shoot them off. You're the third this morning. I've been watching from behind the hedge. You see, I thought that if I could explain to a really nice reporter how things were he might straighten them out a little, but the other reporters looked so rough and unfriendly—"

"What made you think I was a reporter?" Rodney asked.

"You see, I turned in at your driveway because—"

"You're not a detective, are you?"

"Daisy's eyes opened wide in alarm."

"I'm not a reporter and I'm not a detective, and oddly enough I hadn't even heard of your uncle's predicament. I'm Rodney Blake, son of Attorney-General Blake."

Daisy drew back a few steps and looked at the young man with mingled awe and admiration.

"But why didn't you tell me?" she asked.

"You didn't give me a chance," he told her.

"You see, I was on my way to town for an afternoon coat session and my radiator was going dry. I turned in your driveway to beg a gallon or so of water."

It was Daisy's turn to look contrition and Rodney's turn to feel a thrill of satisfaction.

Five minutes later Daisy Crane watched Rodney pour a pail of cold water into the radiator of his car parked in the foot of the wooded lane. And then as she took the empty pail he took his seat behind the wheel.

"Thanks a lot, Daisy Crane," he said.

"Tell your uncle that everything will be all right, and tell him too that I'm coming back, soon and often."

Added Estonia to Russia in the Great War of 1710

Peter the Great added Estonia to Russia in the great northern war in 1710, and the Romanov czars ruled over the land until the downfall of Nicholas II in 1917. The czars delegated their royal prerogatives to the "Baltic barons," descendants of the German Order of Knights who had become masters of the country in 1246 when they bought out the Danes, with whom they had shared sovereignty.

Under the Baltic barons, writes Mason Weller in the Chicago Tribune, the Estonians were serfs, the same as the peasants of great Russia, subject to forced labor, conscription and taxation by tyrants. They were resentful of the double rule of the Russian czars and the German barons, had been agitating for freedom for centuries, and so were ripe and ready for rebellion when opportunity to strike for freedom offered.

Today the president of the Estonian Republic occupies the palace built by Peter the Great in 1718 for his wife, Catherine. It is an ideal "White House," bright and friendly in appearance, shining in the northern sun, with stucco-covered profiles, graceful window frames, and light green tiled roof, surrounded by shady linden trees. From the front entrance of the palace a wide promenade leads down to the sea.

Near the stately palace, but well into the quiet forest, Peter built for himself at the foot of a colossal limestone rock a small Dutch house of five rooms. It is simple, comfortable, "homey." The great czar's little house is carefully preserved as it was when he occupied it. Its furniture, the Dutch-baroque tables, chairs and writing desks with secret drawers, remain as the picturesque despot placed them. Even his well worn, slovenly slippers are under the old four poster bed with its faded green silk ornamentation.

Sake Charmer Bites Cobra

Editorial skepticism was evoked by a cable which the London Daily Herald says it received from its Calcutta correspondent. The paper paraphrases it laconically as follows: "A snake charmer at Nahan, near Simla, lost his temper when his cobra turned sulky, refused to perform. Charmer, foaming with rage, grabbed snake, bit it until it died. Same night, charmer turned black all over, died also." The Daily Herald adds: "Normal biting of cobra is restored by a South African rock cod which leaped from water, bit angler and put him to flight."

Women Leave the Home

More than 1,000,000 women in Brazil are engaged in occupations other than domestic work, whereas 15 years ago the figures were negligible. Professional women, women stenographers, salesladies, women typists, women barbers, women canvassers, and women employed in general office work, commerce and industry are the product of the past few years.

The Kansas event this year is one of 43 state tournaments under sanction of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress.

50 Years
Of U. S. Golf
By GARDNER SOULE

HEY, MIKE, WE AIN'T PLAYING BASEBALL YOU KNOW!

THE "HAND MACHINE" (a "shot" made by picking up the golf ball and tossing it toward the hole) is not mentioned in old histories of golf, but some old-time players of doubtful character used their feet to send the ball from the rough.

Young Johnny Keuhn pounded out two triples and a home run last night to lead the Clinton Avenue softballers to a 8-7 triumph over the Comforters and give Don Weeks another pitching victory.

Wet grounds and an occasional spatter of rain caused players of both teams to decide there would be no game, and neither aggression had its full lineup.

At one time during the contest the winners led 4-4 but in the last inning the Comforters came within the range of tying the score, having the tying run on third base when the third out was made.

The Rev. C. P. Muyskens and Harold Canfield formed the battery for the Comforters while Don Weeks turned in a fine hurling performance for the Methodists.

Negotiations are under way to have the Comforters and Presbyterians play off the 6-5 tie on Friday evening of this week at Forsyth Park.

Kyanize to Play Hedricks If the Weather Is Clear

Rain at 10:45 a. m. threatened to interfere with the second game this week in the City Baseball League, but definite announcement could not be made at the time of sealing the sports sheet.

If the weather is clear at 6 o'clock, tonight's game will bring together the Kyanize and Hedricks. Last night's match between the Gloas and Knights of Columbus was rained out.

For the balance of the week the card is:

Wednesday—Grinnwalds vs. Clois.

Thursday—Jones Dairy vs. Knights of Columbus.

Work on changing the diamond at the athletic field was started this morning by the city, and if plans come through as expected, the league should be using the new position this week.

At a recent special meeting, the managers voted to change home plate to the Tremper avenue, Cornell street portion of the field to prevent the sun from blinding batters.

CITY SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Y. M. C. A. Victorious.

In the City Softball League last night the Y. M. C. A. defeated the Kenton Aves, 7-2. Chuck Henke getting credit as the winning pitcher. He struck out five Kenton batters, and kept six hits well scattered. Capretti was his catcher.

Bikler was touched for 11 blows by the "Y" batsman as he tossed to Clair. Newkirk caught one of his slants for a homer. Purvis made three hits.

Kalamazoo Wins.

Behind the pitching of J. Martin, the Kalamazoo softball team defeated the Barmanas, 7-6, Monday night, thus rolling up their fourth straight victory. The win was Martin's third in a row on the mound.

Opposing Martin was H. Harder on the Barman mound. He gave up 11 hits, one a homer by Keith Van Dusen. Martin was touched for nine blows. It Smith catching on to one for three outs.

Score by Innings

Barmanas.....0 0 0 1 6
Kalamazoo.....2 2 0 0 7

Batters: Kalamazoo—J. Martin and Delaney. Barmanas—H. Harder and Larkin.

Yates Defeats Johnny Fischer

Troon, Scotland, May 24 (AP)—Charley Yates of Atlanta, wearing the "lucky red flannels" given him by Bobby Jones, today defeated his American Walker Cup team-mate, Johnny Fischer, of Cincinnati, with a stymie at the nineteenth green in their first-round match in the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Other defending champions are Lou Burns, Manhattan, m.c.; Howard Welch, Cornell, two m.c.; John Donovan, Dartmouth, 129-yard high hurdles; Irving Foulwath, Rhode Island State, hammer throw; Ed Burke, Marquette, high jump.

Tiano Makes Good Start on the Maroon Mound

By Joe Kelly

The card of scraps for next Friday night at the municipal auditorium lists four feuds. Every one should be a main attraction in itself. One of the duels, that Chappie-Tantillo affair dates back a long time. Rain washed out the City League game last evening, and things don't look so good as this is being ticked out for tonight's match. The city started grading the athletic field this morning for the change of the home plate position. Cornell street and Tremper avenue is the location, not Smith avenue.

President Bill West of the Woodstock Legion Speedway reports all going well for the midget auto races on Sunday, May 29. West is a real leader in the city, being slated to race himself. What one might call an active president. Those Spring Lake Horseshoe tossers with one exception, will sail right along for a string of wins. It was a good beginning for Hank Tiano, Kingston High's new pitcher. Too bad those Black Sox failed to call around Sunday to keep their day with the Colonials. Manager Fred Davy is working hard promoting the local semi-pro club and deserves a better break.

Tony Canzoneri is playing the races hoping to collect a big roll to shoot on Barney Ross. Here it is May 24 and they're still serving coffee instead of beer in the New York Press bar. I imagine that if Max Bear's baby dies, Max never will enter the ring again. Barney Ross will pull Meantime the Flatbush Authors down $50,000 for fighting Henry

Threw Flower Pot
At His Lady Friend
Broke Panel Door

Smith Lowery, a negro of 153
Abel street, knocked on the door of his lady friend last evening for admittance. He said that admission was denied and that he then threw a flower pot at her and broke a panel in the door. He was placed under arrest by his friend, Isabel Boyd, and spent the remainder of the night in the county jail.

This morning he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct when arrested before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court and was fined $5.

Ethan Decker of Port Ewen, arrested for public intoxication,
street, arrested for driving a truck without having a chauff-eur's license, was given a suspended sentence.

Ethan agreed with the court that a few days in jail
would help him to sober up, and Judge Cahill imposed a sentence of five days, in order that Ethan would be able to celebrate Memorial Day outside the jail walls.

Arrested with Ethan at the time was James Casey, 14, who originally came from Chichester,
and who has been working at odd jobs in Kingston for some time.
James was charged with disorder-

Japan's Offensive

Rolls Eastward

Shanghai, May 24 (AP)—The Japanese offensive to choke all

China's railways today rolled toward Kaifeng, ancient capital of Honan Province and 40 miles east of the important junction at Chengchow.

Japanese planes bombed Kai-

feng in a morning attack and claimed destruction of ten trains and considerable wreckage. The station at Chengchow also was bombed, impeding communications eastward.

Japanese artillery, tanks and

cavalry were moving toward Kai-

feng, followed by infantry which captured the old city's key defenses at Lanfeng.

The nearest Japanese column

was fighting its way along the Lunghai about Chaotaiyung, 15

miles east of Kaifeng.

(Hankow dispatches said several were killed at Kaifeng by aerial bombardment, and that the city's few miles east could be heard within the city.)

By their capture, Szechow last week the Japanese broke the great east-west Lunghai railway

at its junction with the north-

south Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

method of reapportioning Senate and Assembly districts?

"What's the use of going that far?" scoffed Smith. "That's a terrible political question and there's no sense in making any proposal on that."

"The Republicans are in control of this convention and they're going to do things their way. And all the hot air pumped out by the Democrats is going right through the chamber's new ventilating system."

In addition to his county consolidation measure, Smith submitted a proposal to have the legislature meet every second year only for consideration of appropriations and passing the budget. No other matter except of an "emergency nature" would be considered.

He also introduced a proposal

that would prohibit the Legislature from passing special bills

such as measures that would relate to fish and game, or private claims.

In his first public action as a

1938 delegate, the former governor urged that state and municipalities be permitted to issue

bonds to finance slum clearance

and low cost housing, by "tapping the great reservoirs of private capital as well as the public treasury."

pending elections. Already Col.

Lorenzo Sanchez, of the army,

had been named head of the police department of the city of San Luis Potosi.

Other Arrests Expected.

Other arrests were expected to follow that of Alamilla, the result of the appearance of Cedillo manifestos calling for opposition to Cardenas.

Government soldiers sprawled

on the front porch of the Cedillo

estate revealed the handful of Cedillistas guarding the Hacienda

tried to set off underground mines

when the troops arrived. They found the front porch also mined.

In an effort to keep the Mexico-

Laredo highway to the United States open the war ministry reported troops disarmed police at Tamazunchale and other points.

In the adjoining state of Queretaro a well organized band of 300

rebels raided the Galindo, Miranda

and La Noria ranches, taking horses and disarming Agrarians

in the neighborhoods.

Exhibit New Train

New York, May 23.—(Special)

—A sample of what may be the

New York, Ontario and Western

Railway train of the near future

will be placed on exhibition Friday at Weehawken, N. J., prior to its inaugural run to Hancock, N.

Y., bearing officials of the line.

Refurnished, inside and out, the train and locomotive will sport

maroon and black colors and a band of orange, outlined with black stripes. The art work was done by Otto Kuhler, who has done similar service for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The train, to be called "The Mountaineer," will be semi-streamlined and is expected to cut the time upstate somewhat.

It may be the forerunner of such trains, according to Frederic Ly-ford, trustee of the line.

Roosevelt to Dedicate Gettysburg Memorial

Gettysburg, Pa., May 24 (AP)—

Old soldiers who for years have decorated the graves of those who fell on the nation's most famous battlefield called today for younger men to carry on the duty grown too strenuous for them. They have asked sons and grandsons to take up preservation of the 3,000

graves.

Nevertheless the veterans still will have a part in the Memorial

Day ceremonies next Monday.

Donning again their faded blue uniforms, they will motor in the annual parade that attracts thousands to this historical observance.

The exercises have aroused unusual interest this year because of the 75th anniversary celebration of the battle of Gettysburg

next month.

President Roosevelt will dedicate a soldiers' memorial at the anniversary observance.

G.A.R. Vet 'Charmed' in War

Victim of Five Auto Mishaps

Pittsburgh, May 24 (AP)—James

Power Sankey, 31-year-old "boy

in blue," is one of the few living persons ever to pose for a United States coin.

Sculptor Frank Vittor used the Union veteran, who lives in suburban Crafton, as a model in designing the commemorative "Battle of Gettysburg" half dollar.

The coins—50,000 of them—

will be distributed this month at $1.65 each in connection with the 75th reunion celebration at Gettysburg.

Sankey fought in the battles of

the Wilderness, Cold Harbor,

North Anne River and Spotsylva-

nia and was never wounded—but he's been struck five times by automobiles.

ROSENDALE

Social Party Great Success

Rosedale, May 23.—The social party given in the village

school, under the auspices of the Rosedale Parent-Teacher Association Friday evening, proved a great success, both socially and financially. There were approximately 90 persons present.

First Communion

Rosedale, May 23.—First

Holy Communion was given on Sunday morning to a class of seven boys and seven girls of St.

Peter's parish. The girls wore white dresses, white shoes and stockings and white hats with veils hanging from the back.

The boys were dressed in white suits with white socks and black shoes.

The Mass was celebrated by the Rev. William McDonald. The

Mass was attended by three Sisters from St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church of Kingston,

who had prepared the children

for this occasion. Hymns were sung by the junior choir.

After the Mass the children were taken to St. Peter's Hall where they were served with breakfast by the women of the parish. Here group pictures were taken of the children.
